IN MEMORIUM

Brother Santos Montoya, S.M.

Marianist

Brother Santos was born in Spain, November, 2, 1916. He made his First Profession of Vows in the Society of Mary on July 10, 1935. After several years of teaching in Spain, he came to Japan as a Missionary in 1951. He first taught at St. Joseph College, then at the Meisei Gakuen in Osaka and again was appointed to St. Joseph College where he had taught and worked in various capacities. He was also liked by the students for his boundless enthusiasm in his work. Brother Santos went to his eternal reward in Yokohama on August 6, 1975.

May his soul rest in peace!

All things uncomely and broken, all things worn out and old,
The cry of a child by the roadway, the creak of a lumbering cart,
The heavy steps of the ploughman, splashing the wintry mould,
Are wronging your image that blossoms a rose in the deeps of my heart.
Yeats

Walk-on people walk by your pace
H. Kamayatsu

The clouds were pure and white as flocks new shorn
And fresh from the clear brook; quietly they slept
On the blue fields of heaven-when then there crept
A little noiseless noise among the leaves
Born of the very sigh that silence heaves.

Keats

Dear Seniors of '76

You are fortunate to be the Graduating Class in this Seventy-fifth Year of your Alma Mater, the oldest international boys' school in this great Country of Japan.

An outstanding and proud SJC tradition is yours - a tradition forged by well qualified Faculties and loyal Alumnus from the time Bro. Louis Stolz, S.M., the first Director/Principal, made the purchase of the old Maple Hotel located on the present site in 1901 to the day of your own Graduation. In fact, with your Graduation you have added your own pages to that priceless tradition. That tradition has been and is well embedded in a solid academic program and discipline that have become the deep roots of St. Joseph's. The fruit of their growth has been the SJC man of the past and of the present: YOURSELVES, who know the meaning of: "Forward with Faith and Fortitude!"

Here it is fitting to pause for a moment of praise and thanksgiving to the Almighty through the intercession of St. Joseph, our Heavenly Patron and his Spouse, Our Lady, for His most generous blessings towards our Alma Mater, St. Joseph College.

Graduates of this 75th Anniversary Year, all of us are proud of you - your Parents, Teachers, Fellow Students and Friends. Our congratulations! and deep thanks!

Rev. Francis W. Gerber, S.M.
Acting Principal

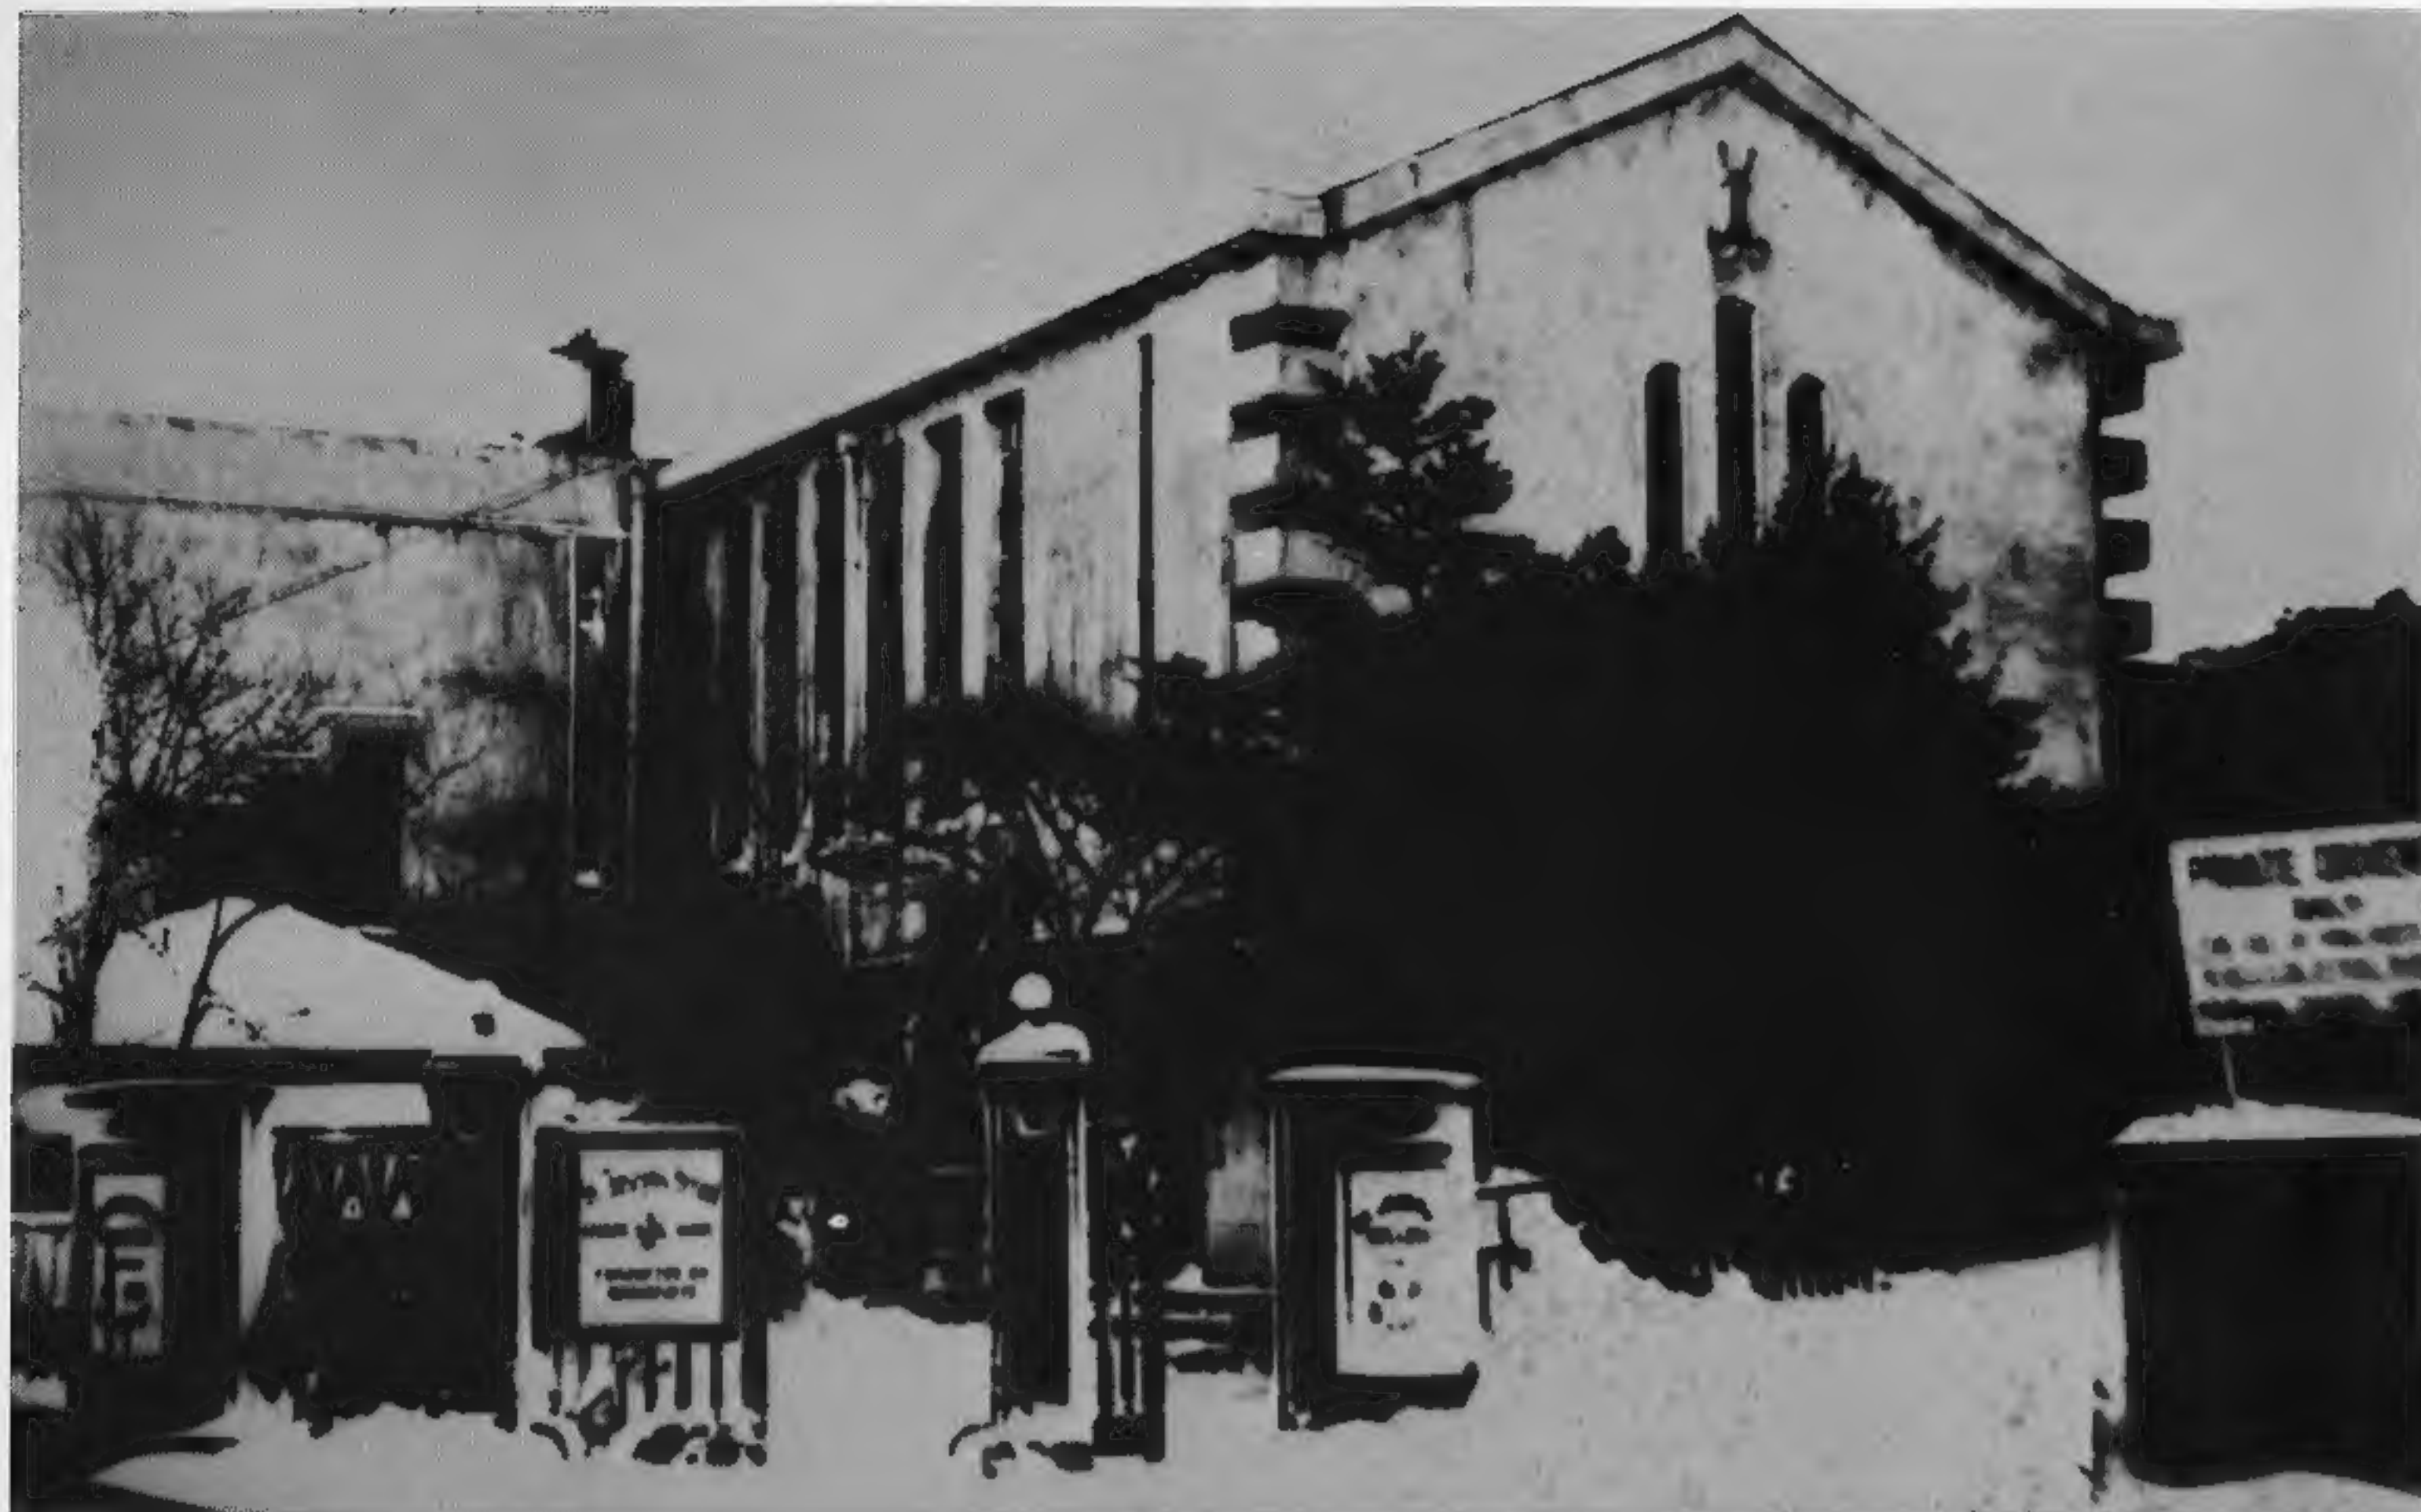

ST. JOSEPH COLLEGE

INTERNATIONAL BOYS' SCHOOL

JUNIOR SCHOOL

FOUNDED 1901 - 75th ANNIVERSARY

History of S.J.C.

In 1901, the Marianists Order of the Society of Mary came to Yokohama to establish an international boy's school. They started the institution which exists now as St. Joseph College.

The Great Kanto Earthquake in 1923 devastated the city of Yokohama. However, there were no casualties at all at SJC, while 12 nuns and forty children at St. Maurs were killed by the earthquake. As a result of the disaster, The Brothers were forced to go to Kobe since there was no place to stay.

The Brothers restored school for children of foreigners in Kobe. Two years later, the Brothers moved back to Yokohama. During this time, the girls of St. Maurs used the third floor classrooms since none of their buildings were rebuilt yet. This was the only time when coeducation existed at SJC.

Yokohama recovered quickly from its damage. The foreign community kept on increasing. The number of students, as a consequence, grew drastically. The buildings of St. Maurs were renovated and the girls moved back.

SJC experienced its second crisis during the years of 1938 to 1940 when the counsels of various countries warned their citizens to leave Japan. Therefore, almost all of the students of SJC left. The school, however, stayed open. All foreigners were regarded as spies during the World War II. In effect, all foreigners were commanded to leave the Bluff. At last, the school was forced to close down. The Brothers were driven to Hakone. There they started a school in Gora Park Hotel for foreign children. In spite of all the difficulties during the war, two people were able to graduate. This school struggled for existence until the Japanese surrender in 1945.

After the war, the Brothers moved back to Yokohama. Many of the school buildings were destroyed, so there was much work to be done. At first, the American occupational forces desired to utilize the school as a hospital. However, this proposal was banned and in June 1964, sixty workers were sent to the school by the occupational forces to restore it to a new educational institution. Since St. Maurs was again unable to function itself, for the second time, SJC became coeducational.

The things were ameliorated and the number of students naturally increased. The girls of St. Maurs returned to their school. As a result of the glorious economic development which enabled Japan to emerge as an economic giant, SJC has progressed extensively in terms of academic and spiritual realms.

My Song
 When my heart is full of tears, bleeding, sad,
 When I recall the sweet, old home of mine,
 I will write a song with the words I used
 Long ago so as to dry the welling tears
 Of ineffable loneliness.
 When the sky is full of tears, crying, bleak,
 When I am locked in a dark, cold room,
 I will sing the song sweet heart till the golden sun-rays
 Diverge across the azure sky.
 When our hearts are full of joy, floating, light,
 Far beyond what words could ever render,
 We will sing the song in reminiscence
 Giving warm delight to those possessing
 No sweet home in their memory.

There are two tragedies in life. One is to lose your heart's desire. I didn't do it, he did it!

THE LURE OF THE CLASS OF '76

As we recall our grade school days, we feel as though we have gone through a long process of metamorphosis. How naughty we were in those days! We made in fact all the female teachers weep and infuriated all the male teachers every day. Their tears and anger, however, were not in vain. As we grew up, we learned gradually how to behave.

The class of '76 is essentially a very diverse and as a whole it is not appropriate to describe it as a united class.

Each student has his own characteristics and interests. Different personalities and talents, nevertheless, banded together to form an interesting and dynamic class.

Alma, a collective and good-natured third class, "bungaku shonen" burns with enthusiasm only when he talks about theater and Japanese actresses.

Bakuso, always energetic and big-hearted, is an authority in psychology and mocks others by his favorite shout of "ha."

Nokuma, a sympathetic Judo player, can do whatever he pleases since nobody is a masochist in the class. Chan, always unconscious in class, soon resumes activity and becomes noisy and mischievous outside the class. But be it or not, he is nice and tender. Dozaemon, a peaceful-minded sentimental poet, walks in a unique manner that others call him "the moving telephone post."

Garcia, better known as fried chopstick, knows everything about popular music and audio system. He lives in Atom, so anyone intending to go there, contact him.

Harehata never stops talking once he starts talking and his sarcasm is bit too much, but he is anyway jovial. Ponn-pote, an epicurean who enjoys his private life, is a professional in dancing.

Etoko, who is overly pompous before his friends, becomes overly shy before an audience cuz he is sincere and simple.

Bakamiko, the aggressive, flagrant, frustrated, care-less excited editor of FORWARD '76 calls himself "guzuma obakasan" but in reality, he's kind-hearted and generous.

Menashi, a farmer from Ibaragi who is always friendly and cheerful, is struggling very hard to magnify the size of his eyes so that others will know the difference when he's awake and when he's asleep. Chinese monkey is called by the respected title of "contemporary Chinese philosopher" but actually he's a bit out of focus.

Akayo, a kind and friendly somnambulist, becomes mad whenever someone calls him "kawaii."

Mighty, the brain of the class of '76, is extremely searching and responds by "take it easy" says the lazy editor.

Maezumi, a fun-loving nice guy, is wild and gentle at the same time. It's not a contradiction, it's a paradox.

Bakamura, who dreams to become a architect, is usually reticent but gets excited when someone calls him "daiku."

Teru, who is easy-going but intelligent and keen, overcame his handicap (that he has short legs) and was able to be a responsive Basketball Team captain. Shotaro, the star of the class, always wants to appear in photos although nobody really wants him, but also he is an active and responsive character in our class.

Yakutobasan, passionate and hard working, who likes shopping, can become a good wife (guaranteed by the staff of FORWARD '76). Otorasan, inclines to gross exaggeration but we know you are independent and optimistic.

To awaken the world from the sweet intoxication
Yet profusion of images makes my eyes bleary,
For drowsiness calls me back to complete darkness

FORWARD 1976
Most Rights Reserved
Produced by the Class of '76

Seigo Kaneko editor-in-chief here's seigo, better known as kuso-editor or hen-shucho (queer tribal chief), who was dreaming half of the time (as usual) but believe it or not he used the other half of his time for the Forward-designed layouts, planned photos, used as much budget as possible, made noise, messed up the room, disturbed the work. he did some-a-thing that made this book so tender.

Terukuni Okuyama co-editor
if the editor was the kettle teru was the pot, both filled with problems & worries. "he was half-crazy and half-intelligent as the editor" says the 'hen-shucho'. teru was logical and careful with his work. his work was so logical that the editor never thought of it.

Kenji Harahata business manager
harahara, the obnoxious big-mouthed business manager, always made us "hara-hara" and retarded our progress. whenever he was in the room, not one staff could continue his work because of his stupid remarks and crazy jokes. but it was he who went north to south, east to west collecting ads like a real business manager.

Kenji Yagi treasurer
our beloved treasurer occasionally was the victim of hysteria when he saw the photo and layout expense bills. however, we are grateful for his boundless generosity and undying patience.

Makoto Almajano literary editor alma was running around emending literary works. also he was the one filled with courageous stupidity that helped the editor once in a while. his quasi-poetic inspiration was at times praised, but most of the time was frowned upon.

Shuichi Tanaka layout editor
here's another guy, shotaro, a stoical layout editor. he was calm and gentle ever when the kuso-editor gave him enough problems with the eighth grade layout and the last minute changes of layout plans.

Ronnie Chan layout
dojinasa, as his nickname, was doji (competing with the literary ed.) & also got the title of "sankasha" from the staff for his favorite quotation was "ore shigoto nai yo."
....but for a change he layed out half the book.

Leonardo Basco photography
lenny, our responsible, energetic, and dynamic photographer not only spent his time in the dark-room, but came to the staff room to make sure that nobody was slacking off. he used up money in a dynamic fashion which ended up in a series of violent conflicts

Chao Wee Liao ad layout editor
Chao Weeee..., the ads layout editor, was persevering, efficient, and usually calm, but he infected the editor with thousands of questions that caused the editor to end up in neurosis. his questions were so corrupt that the editor never thought of them.

Hyunkyu Kim ad layout
kim, the enthusiastic ads layoutter, did his work faithfully and methodically. he also did most of the art work in the ads section but at the same time he was one of the greatest headache for the editor. since it was he, like the treasurer last year, who had the habit of yelling out, "Busu, ore wa kaneko dai!" to unsuspecting girls walking on the street below the Forward room.

Hiroshi Nakamura ad layout
bakamura, a quiet and diligent worker found joy out of his work(?) on the ads layouts. the only thing (and a crucial one) so striking was that when he was asked to help the photographer, he took rolls of film which are of no use to the FORWARD.

William Loeffler typist
willy am friendly, but the only thing he did was drinking tea in the staff room. to be perfectly impartial (so that he would not get so infuriated) he also typed and retyped several million ream of paper. unlike his innocent face, his candid remarks constantly plagued the staff.

Mr. Larry Hackett advisor
Mr. Hackett came to the staff room sometimes to criticize our slow progress and inefficiency. Yet we all know his concern was to make sure that FORWARD '76 would be published in time. We are grateful to his undivided and undying interest.

Thanks to:
Fr. Gerber for his deep understanding towards our work,
Bro. Germain for his patience
Mr. and Mrs. Kaneko for their hospitality
Mrs. Sui for donating to us some onigiri
Yang Tung Li for his art work
Eugene Mikami for all his precious time he sacrificed to help organize the broken thoughts of the editor and all who have cooperated (in one way or another) in this production.

Dear Staff:
Today you're King....so relax...rest...
and take it easy.
editor

This blob of paper is our blood, sweat, and tears: hardwork and patience packed and binded. All the afflictions, all the efforts, countless headaches and sleepless nights now becoming to be a part of the memory binded in this final fruit. It was a busy summer day when the staff first got together to organize their fragments of ideas concerning the Forward. Then, summer to fall, fall to winter, winter to spring-I don't know what's going on yet, what can I do? What can I say? Trapped in a Wonder Ring-running around in a gloomy sphere. Tasting bitterness, cheated myself, escaped into fantasy... a hesitant, lazy editor. I wish I was a bit more mature so that I didn't have to be sick at heart. Imagine all the troubles and problems when you have a guy like me for your editor, always noisy and restless. All the shoutings, sarcasms, complaints, and disturbances darted out from my mouth. My loud laugh spoke my vacant mind.

But all my joys to this are folly. This fruit is for you to taste. Do you like it?... not too sweet, not too sour... a little bitter... can be better? The fruit of our creation-this one is for you.

I will not excuse-I am in earnest. I will not speak anymore but the last broken thought that I want to shout is "Forward '76 Best member's best one!"

our spirit forever
seigo kaneko
editor-in-cheif

see you again
